

Fashion, dining and entertainment have merged around a modern main street in the heart of southeast Denver, Colo., bringing area residents and southeast metro communities a convenient, comfortable, charming atmosphere and a great place to gather. Spanning 301 acres, Southlands, at 1.7 million square feet, is Colorado's largest retail destination featuring some of today's most popular shopping attractions.

This mixed-use retail development features a modern main street with a classic movie theatre, premier retailers, restaurants and unique boutiques. The town square at the north end of Main Street offering a farmer's market and seasonal entertainment makes this outdoor town center a great place to gather year round.
